UW SYSTEM – MARTIN RUDD

The University of Wisconsin System is one of the largest systems of public higher education in the country, serving approximately 180,000 students each year and employing more than 39,000 faculty and staff statewide. The UW System’s 14 UW Colleges deliver freshman-sophomore courses for students seeking a foundation for a bachelor’s degree. All UW System campuses and UW-Extension programs provide Wisconsin’s citizens with opportunities to contribute to the state’s growing “knowledge economy” through the UW System’s three-pronged mission of teaching, research and public service. The mission of the University of Wisconsin System is to develop human resources, to discover and disseminate knowledge, to extend knowledge and its application beyond the boundaries of its campuses, and to serve and stimulate society by developing in students heightened intellectual, cultural, and humane sensitivities, scientific, professional and technological expertise, and a sense of purpose. Inherent in this broad mission are methods of instruction, research, extended training, and public service designed to educate people and improve the human condition. Basic to every purpose of the UW System is the search for truth. Rudd went over some data with the club showing the student demographics. 58% of the students are 1st generation students, 31% low income, 43% are part time students, 18% have dependents, 4% are active duty/veterans, 37% are non-trade aged, 17% are of color, 81% are employed and 5% are non-native English students. Their transfer student has been very successful. They have a higher success of students graduating than those students who go directly to college right out of high school. They have seen a decrease in enrollment over the past few years but it is the UW system as a whole. You can visit their website at <https://www.wisconsin.edu/about-the-uw-system/> for more information of the UW System as a whole.
