GREEN BAY LOVE STORIES AND AFFAIRS: SANDY SULLIVAN

Sandy Sullivan grew up in Mauston, Wisconsin. After she graduated High School she moved to Milwaukee to work for the Boston Store. While working there she was discovered as a model and attended a modeling school. After completing school she was offered a job that would forever change her life. While working at the modeling company Sandy received a phone call from a Mr. Tom Miller, Assistant General Manager of the Green Bay Packers. He was looking for a woman to run a booth at a tradeshow in Green Bay for the Packers. He wanted a few ladies sent over to interview. Sandy decided she would like to interview so she went but was not hired. When she got home she received a call from Tom Miller that changed her life forever. When Sandy arrived to the tradeshow she was nervous and scared. She knew nothing about football. She was setting up the table when a man came walking towards her and with a deep voice said, Sandy, I'm Vince Lombardi. He told her she had 1 objective while working this booth and that was to sell season tickets because he had the winning football team for 1961. It said it was "our" year. He was going to put Green Bay on the map, the Green Bay Packers were going to be the Champions of the World and this was "our" winning year. Lombardi taught Sandy everything she needed to know about football. He made her watch videos of the players and she learned each and every one by their number. To this day she remembers what player wore each number. Sandy was linked to such players as Paul Hornung and Dan Currie throughout the years. It was not until later in life that she decided to write a book about her experiences with the Packers. Modeled and tested by the Champions of Green Bay, Sandy expressed deep and honest feelings about the lessons learned from relationships with players which shaped and directed her life, and tells us what it was life for her to run with the "PACK."
